

Quality is key for golf club kitchen

A busy golf club kitchen providing excellent service for its customers looked to Streme for its high quality screen solutions.

Kenilworth Golf Club has a large commercial kitchen, with 10 windows and doors in total, including 5 skylights, requiring purpose built insect screens.

Club Secretary Rob Griffiths was delighted with Streme's fast response to his enquiry: "Streme turned round our request immediately and came out to see us, measured up and gave me a price. I knew they would do a proper job."

"Fly screens aren't the most exciting of products! But Streme was the first company I found which looked the part."

As in any catering environment health and safety considerations are paramount. Rob wanted to ensure his club's kitchen could go that extra mile in terms of quality for the sake of their customers.

"Streme removed the old screens and disposed of them on our behalf which was a useful part of the service."

"We needed replacement screens that would be easy to clean and which would stand the test of time. Streme suggested we go for a stainless steel mesh which would give additional strength as well as being more hygienic."

With a number of shelving units, sinks and appliances to manoeuvre to access the windows, Streme quoted Rob a day and a half to complete the installation.

"Screen installation can be a fiddley job, especially if you try and do it yourself. Streme started early in the morning on the day our kitchen was closed, and completed the whole job in just over half the time they'd quoted."

"From our perspective working with Streme helped us solve an important issue for our kitchen fairly painlessly. They worked round our opening times and left the kitchen how they'd found it. The quality of Streme's product is spectacular, and we're very pleased to have our screen requirements covered for the next 5-10 years."
